Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 19 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Best in the northeast tomorrow, more areas seeing sunshine Sunday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Mostly cloudy, cloud thick enough for patchy drizzle in places, most likely parts of the far north of Scotland and North Sea coastal areas in England. Clearer with a touch of frost over eastern and central Scotland and southern England.

Saturday:
Rather cloudy for most regions but northeast England and eastern, southeastern and central Scotland will have a warmer, brighter day with good spells of sunshine. Breezy in the far north.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Mostly dry with often large amounts of cloud. A few showers possible in the north on Monday. Sunniest conditions probably across eastern areas. Rain will affect the northwest on Tuesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.